'SURVIVOR TELLS HOW GERMANS SHOT SOLDIERS

Nazi Gunners Laughed While
Victims Writhed In Mud,
Ex-Officer Recalls

DACHAU, May 21—A GI survivor of the Malmédy massacre told today how Nazi gunners mowed down the massed ranks of helpless American war prisoners and guffawed raucously as their dying victims writhed screaming in the mud of Belgium.

Virgil P. Lary of Lexington, Ky., former first lieutenant and one of six U. S. soldiers who survived the massacre by playing dead, testified at the trial of 74 German Elite guardsmen charged with the mass murder in the battle of the Bulge.

The Americans were captured in the first onrush of the German offensive launched Dec. 16, 1944. That same day they were mustered in ranks eight deep and 20 abreast at the Malmédy crossroads.

Lary identified one of the defendants, George Fleps, as the man who fired the first shot at the Americans. The SS man aimed carefully with his revolver and felled a GI standing with hands clasped over his head.

Then two German machine gunners opened up. Then machine guns rattled for three minutes. The prisoners went down like waves of grain before the sickle. A deathly silence hung for some moments over the bloody scene, broken by obscene gusts of laughter from the executioners.

Lary fell face down in the mud, shot in the left foot. He heard single shots from pistols as the coup de grace was administered to those who still lived and moved. After an hour that was an eternity, somebody yelled, and those who could do so made a break for safety. Lary hid in a shed until nightfall and escaped to the American lines.

"The firing lasted about three minutes," Lary testified. "A man came by me, and I heard a pistol shot nearby. Then I heard the sound of a new clip being inserted in the pistol, and the man passed on. I heard someone say to someone else, 'have they killed you yet?'"

"He replied, 'no, not yet, but if they are going to kill me, I wish they would come back and get it over with.'"

He pointed to one of the defendants, an arm's length away and said, "This is the man who fired two shots into an American prisoner of war." Private Fletz, to whom he pointed, blinked and gulped.

Lary told the court how a 30-vehicle column of battery B of the 285th field artillery observation battalion was stopped at the Malmédy crossroads by artillery, mortar and small arms fire. He said Captain Mills, in charge of the column, ordered the men to hit the ditch and crawl 100 yards or so to a house.

Lary said he had his hands over his head and was about to surrender. (Continued on Page Two)

Byrnes Plan To Take Peace Troubles To UN To Get Senate Support

WASHINGTON, May 21—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes' surprise threat to refer European peace treaties to the United Nations assembly if the Russians continue to veto a peace conference was certain of strong senate support today.

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich., who accompanied Byrnes to the unsuccessful foreign ministers meeting in Paris, plans to make a short statement in the senate today—preliminary to a longer report on the meeting later. He declined to comment before speaking in the senate.

It was Vandenberg, who at the San Francisco United Nations conference, dubbed the UN assembly the "town meeting of the world." He is expected to welcome Byrnes' proposal to appeal to the assembly to draft peace treaties if the Soviet Union continues to block a peace conference.

Byrnes made his threat last night in a radio report to the nation on the failure at Paris—a failure which he placed squarely on the shoulders of the Soviet Union. It was a part of what Byrnes, disappointed but not discouraged, called America's "offensive for peace."

Directing his remarks almost entirely at the Soviet Union, Byrnes said:

"The objective of our offensive is not territory or reparations for the United States. The objective is peace—not a peace founded upon vengeance or greed, but a just peace, the only peace that can endure."

This came after Byrnes outlined Russia's demands for reparations from Italy and her original demand for trusteeship over an Italian colony, as well as Britain's current insistence upon British trusteeship over one Italian colony.

American officials said Byrnes' threat to refer the entire peace treaty matter to the United Nations was a surprise. To their knowledge he had not revealed his "ace" to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in Paris—at least not at any public meeting.

Mingled with his criticism of Russia and determination to secure a just peace was a warning to the American people to have "patience and firmness, tolerance and understanding" because the building of a people's peace is a "hard, long process."

He himself promised to return to Paris June 15—the date of the next foreign ministers meeting—with determination to reach agreement with Russia on outstanding issues about peace treaties with (Continued on Page Two)

SUPREME COURT RULING BLASTED

Justice Frankfurter Does
Not Agree With Action
On Jury Exclusion

WASHINGTON, May 21—The supreme court today may have invited challenges to hundreds of jury verdicts with a ruling that a court must not make "wholesale exclusions" in picking jurors.

That is the fear of Justice Felix Frankfurter. Dissenting from a majority opinion of the court yesterday, Frankfurter warned that his fellow justices may have "burned the barn in order to roast the pig."

The court ordered a new trial for Gilbert E. Thiel in his damage suit against the Southern Pacific railroad. It found that court officials "deliberately and intentionally" excluded a large class of wage earners from the jury which heard his case in the federal court at San Francisco.

The district court followed its long-time practice of picking prospective jurors from the city directory, but refusing to call for duty any person who, from his occupation listed in the directory, appeared to earn a daily wage. The court said experience showed these workers would ask to be excused because of "financial hardship."

The supreme court, however, said that to sanction this practice (Continued on Page Two)

New Premier May Resign If He Is Unable To Find
Suitable Members

TOKYO, May 21—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters today barred two ministers selected by Premier-Designate Shigeru Yoshida, forcing him to renew his five-day struggle to form a cabinet.

Headquarters rejected Hiroshi Nasu as agriculture-forrestry minister and Chuzo Iwata as justice minister under the purge directive barring from public office men with militarist records.

Yoshida then submitted the name of public procurator general Tokutaro Kimura for the justice post. Informed sources said he was seeking Hiro Wada, chief of the agricultural policy bureau for the agriculture-forrestry post.

Informed sources said that Yoshida might resign because of the difficulties in forming a new cabinet. He almost abandoned his efforts to form a cabinet Sunday. (Continued on Page Two)

UN MAY PROBE IRAN PROBLEM

Iran Claims That 'Soviet Interference' Being
Continued There

NEW YORK, May 21—An official charge that "Soviet interference" continues in Iran, two weeks after the Red army evacuation deadline, increased the possibility today that the United Nations may send its own investigators to that trouble zone.

Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala informed the UN security council late last night that Russian interference in Azerbaijan has prevented his government from "exercising any effective authority" in that province. Consequently, he said, Iran has been unable to establish officially whether or not the last Soviet troops have left.

The council meets at 11 a. m. (EDT) tomorrow—with Russia presumably absent—to decide what further action is required by Ala's report, which bristled with indirect charges that the Azerbaijan autonomists movement is actually directed from Moscow.

In view of Russia's continued silence on the situation in Azerbaijan, and the conflicting reports from Iran itself, some security council members have discussed the possibility of sending a formal investigating body to find out what is going on there.

It was conceded, however, that Russia could probably veto such a plan merely by boycotting all council discussion of Iran. Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko has stated that his government regards the Iranian question as a closed issue, and that he will take part in no further council deliberations on Iran. He proved his point by staying away from a May 8 council meeting, the last time that Iran was on the agenda.

DEATH SENTENCE GIVEN TO FRANK FOR MURDERS

PRAGUE, May 21—Karl Hermann Frank, Nazi "protector" of Czechoslovakia, was sentenced to death today for ordering the destruction of Lidice and other war criminal acts.

A Czech people's court passed the death sentence on Frank after a long trial in which a parade of witnesses recounted his brutal acts as administrator of the occupied land.

Frank confessed during the trial that he had ordered SS troops to wipe out Lidice in reprisal for the assassination of Reinhold Heydrich.

Pickaway County Selective Service Board announced receipt of an official notification, Tuesday, from State Selective Service Director Chester W. Goble pertaining to the virtual "draft holiday" declared recently by Director Goble to last probably until June 1.

"It is not contemplated, in view of the short period of time left in May, to order any registrant for induction during the remainder of May," the state director said in a communication to the county draft board. The circular ordered the draft board not to induct any registrant under 20 or over 30 years old, or who is a father, to (Continued on Page Two)

RICHBERG URGES FEDERAL LAWS CONTROL LABOR

CHICAGO, May 21—Donald R. Richberg, co-author of the railway labor act and the NRA, told the Chicago Rotary club today that there is an urgent need for a comprehensive federal labor law "to bring a rule of reason into labor relations."

"We have reached a stage in the labor movement," the attorney said, "when it has become necessary to enact laws that will require labor organizations and their members to respect the rights of others and the rights of the public, just as all other members of a civilized society are required to conform to long-accepted standards of good conduct."

"The specially protected freedom of labor unions has been transformed into a special license to dominate industry by organized force and to advance the selfish interests of a class with callous disregard for the interests of all the people."

10,000 Line Up For Butter In Baltimore

WHEN a Baltimore grocery store advertised it would have 14,000 pounds of butter for sale, a crowd of 10,000 persons lined up, blocking traffic and causing complaints from other stores. The crowd began forming at 3 a. m. and took over a whole city block. Police were forced to disperse the crowd.

Fog Blamed For Plane Crash Into Skyscraper

NEW YORK, May 21—Fog was blamed today for the death of five persons in an Army transport plane that roared through the concrete and steel wall of the 58th floor of a Wall street skyscraper last night as its pilot groped by instrument for the Newark, N. J., airport.

Apparently the five persons aboard the plane did not realize they were among New York's skyscrapers until a few seconds before the plane, estimated to have been travelling at 150 miles an hour, crashed into the 70 story Bank of Manhattan building.

WAC 1st Lt. Mary E. Bond, a passenger, crossed her fingers as the building suddenly appeared out of the swirling fog. Her fingers were still crossed when her body was removed from the plane's crumpled fuselage inside the building.

The plane left Lake Charles, La., at 2:55 p. m. EDT, yesterday. It took off from Symrna, Tenn., at 4:16 p. m. (EDT) for Newark after refueling.

War department statement said the plane was due at Newark at 8:46 p. m. Apparently Maj. Mansell R. Campbell, pilot of the plane, was ahead of schedule and did not know that he had passed to the north of the airport.

At 8:10 p. m. he contacted the Newark control tower and reported that he was flying blind at 6,000 feet.

The plane crashed into the 927-foot building a few seconds later. The hurtling plane ripped a hole eight by 10 feet in the masonry wall. The wings were torn off. The fuselage came to rest in the pine panelled office of the Atlas Corp.

The plane, a C-45 Beechcraft, exploded in a ball of fire as it hit and sent a cascade of flaming gasoline down the side of the skyscraper.

Officials said the pilot perhaps mistook the East river for the Hudson in the low overcast and early twilight and banked for what he thought was the glide into Newark airport. The craft plunged into the north side of the building at 40 feet.

SOLONS SUGGESTS VETS NOT PAY OHIO SALES TAX

COLUMBUS, May 21—Exemption of veterans from payment of the state sales tax was proposed today to Gov. Frank J. Lausche as a substitute for an Ohio veterans bonus.

State Rep. John Poda, D., Akron, told the governor in a letter that most bonus plans were not beneficial and that veterans who are property owners would pay more in future taxes to support the bonus program than they received in the form of a bonus.

Exemption from paying sales tax for a 15-year period or life would be more commensurate and would not be a "rob-Peter-pay-Paul-and-rob-Paul" plan, Poda said.

"The plan calls for effective, intelligent citizen participation and could be acted upon at the forthcoming special legislative session," he told the governor.

BARKLEY SEEKS LABOR SPEEDUP

Senate Threatened With Night Sessions To Get Bills Done

WASHINGTON, May 21—Senate Democratic leader Alben W. Barkley today reluctantly threatened the senate with night sessions to speed a show-down on labor legislation.

The administration leader, who has taken no sides in the week-long arguments, served notice that he will not let it interfere with his own "must" program—extension of the draft and price control laws which expire June 30.

He planned to renew his request for unanimous consent to limit debate on the pending bill and all proposed amendments. If that fails, he warned, he will consider asking the senate to hold night sessions starting Wednesday.

"It is my hope that we can conclude with this (labor) question this week and then take up the matter of draft extension so that we can begin work on the OPA extension next week," Barkley announced.

"I do not like to say we will attempt to hold night sessions and then not be able to transact business (for lack of a quorum). But, I might have to ask the senate to remain in session Wednesday evening."

Barkley announced his position in response to inquiries by Republican senators who have joined southern Democrats in supporting a group of amendments opposed by a tight little pro-labor group.

The pro-labor group, led by Sens. James M. Murray, D., Mont., and Claude Pepper, D., Fla., has held the floor since labor debate began a week ago yesterday.

AMANDA SENIORS INJURED WHEN BUS OVERTURNS

Twelve Amanda High school seniors were injured, one seriously, Monday night, when their Washington-bound Valley Greyhound bus overturned and crashed against a bridge abutment on the National highway near Barnesville.

The accident occurred at 10:50 p. m. at the foot of a hill. State Highway Patrolmen said the driver apparently lost control of the bus.

Miss Patricia Miskell was removed to a hospital at Martins Ferry. She was the most seriously injured of the 12 students. Treated at Hendrysburg were Eleanor McNabb, Mary Kibbie, Edward Kibbie and Edna Cordle. Those treated at St. Clairsville were Pat Clark, Paul Hedges, Doyle Hummel, Alice Hyme, Lorna Smith and Roy Kilbarger.

The students were enroute to Washington on their senior class vacation trip.

U. S. Will Take Over Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, May 21—President Truman today ordered Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug to seize the bituminous coal mines of the nation tomorrow.

Truman signed the seizure order at 2 p. m. EST.

Krug will determine the actual hour of the seizure which will be sometime tomorrow.

Krug was instructed in an executive order to take over and operate the mines in such a way as to "preserve the national economic structure in the present emergency."

The soft coal men are now operating under a two week truce by the UMW which expires at midnight Saturday.

White House Secretary Charles G. Ross said miners and operators had been "sounded out" as to appointment of Krug, who also is solid fuels administrator. He said Krug was "acceptable" to both sides. He refused to infer whether this meant miners would work for the government.

By United Press
Administration labor advisers worked against time today in an effort to settle the railroad dispute before Thursday's 4 p. m. strike deadline, and to keep coal mines operating after the present two-week truce expires Saturday.

Representatives of the two independent railroad brotherhoods disclosed last night that a "new proposal" had been made and submitted to the railroad management by presidential assistant John R. Steelman.

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and Alvanley Johnston, head of the locomotive engineers, reported "some progress" after a 90-minute conference with Steelman, and said they were ready to meet with management "at any time."

Coal production during the first week of the truce was considerably less than anticipated, and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company at Youngstown, O., announced a shutdown because of dwindling coal supplies. A spokesman for the company said four blast furnaces and the last 16 of its open hearths that had operated during the emergency had been shut down.

In the rail dispute Steelman was attempting to work out some compromise before bringing both sides together to resume joint negotiations. A management spokesman reported "some progress—but not too much" after a meeting between Steelman and the carriers' wage committee yesterday.

There was some speculation that the two brotherhoods might have offered to give ground in demands for 44 changes in working rules in return for an 18 per cent wage boost. The unions had boiled down wage demands from an original (Continued on Page Two)

U. S. SOLDIERS RAID 372 BOATS

Americans Act To Break Up
Suspected Plot To Smuggle SS Men

VILSHOFEN, Germany, May 21—More than 4,000 American troops raided 372 vessels of the Danube river fleet, including remnants of the Hungarian navy, today in a bid to smash a suspected underground channel evacuating escaped SS men from Germany.

The raiders were picked men from the constabulary of the American occupation zone. They struck suddenly along a broad reach of the Danube to break up illegal activity in which the river fleet was believed engaged.

Special agents of the counter-intelligence corps and criminal investigation division led the raid, the code name for which was "operation grab bag."

The raid also was aimed at wiping out suspected smuggling on a big scale of diamonds, narcotics, U. S. Army material, and black market goods.

ginal $2.50 a day, while the carriers were willing to go no higher than the $1.28 recommended by a presidential fact-finding board.

Meanwhile, officials of 15 non-operating railroad brotherhoods were tabulating strike vote ballots of 1,000,000 members, reportedly overwhelmingly in favor of a walkout.

Union leaders were in the unique position of being unable to set a strike, however, because the roads had been placed under government operation before Saturday's strike deadline. The Smith-Connally act provides specific penalties for individuals encouraging strike action under federal seizure.

In another important labor development, newspaper publishers were hard hit by a strike of Canadian International Woodworkers of America (CIO), now in its eighth day.

The strike forced publishers in Canada and on the west coast and in several Rocky Mountain states to reduce the size of issues, and limit advertising and feature space.

Newspaper supplies were threatened further by an announcement that 50,000 timber workers in five northwestern states had voted to strike, if necessary, to press wage demands.

TORNADOES KILL TWO IN TEXAS AND CAROLINA

By United Press

Two widely-separated areas in North Carolina and Texas were recovering today from tornadoes which killed two persons and injured about 75 others.

The tornadoes struck yesterday at Kinston, N. C., and Laredo, Tex., on the Mexican border.

Hospital facilities were taxed to capacity, and the southern Red Cross headquarters at Atlanta dispatched disaster workers to Kinston after the twister ripped through the outskirts of the city at 8:35 p. m. (EST). One person died and 50 others were hurt.

A 75-mile an hour tornado which struck earlier in the day at Laredo and Nuevo Laredo, across the Rio Grande in Mexico, killed one man and injured at least 24 other persons.

AIR POLICIES BEING PROBED BY CONGRESSMEN

WASHINGTON, May 21—Congress began an investigation of American air policies today in the belief they may be outmoded in an era of revolutionary aeronautical developments.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, was first witness as a senate interstate commerce subcommittee opened hearings on a bill by Sen. Hugh B. Mitchell, D., Wash., to set up a national air policy board.

The board, which would have nine members appointed by the President with senate approval, would plan continued U. S. supremacy in military and civil aviation and aircraft manufacturing.

Byrnes Plan To Take Peace Troubles To UN To Get Senate Support

Italy, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary and Finland.

At that time he will renew his demand for calling a peace conference of all 21 nations that fought against the Axis in Europe for July 1 or 15 because he thinks the making of peace is no longer the exclusive prerogative of any four governments.

If the Russians continue to veto the peace conference plan—and they can under the foreign ministers' rules—then Byrnes will ask the general assembly which meets in New York in September to make recommendations for peace settlements. He would do so under article 14 of the UN charter which allows the assembly to recommend measures for the peaceful adjustment of any situation, "regardless of origin," which it deems likely to impair the general welfare of friendly relations among nations.

The Soviet Union is not likely to look favorably upon any attempt to take the peace treaty issues to be assembled where the United States and Great Britain control a majority of the votes. The Russians are balking now at taking the unsettled issues to 21 nations—let alone 51.

day night, but agreed under pressure from close friends to make another attempt. He never had desired the premiership, informants said.

For the first time since Yoshida began the task of forming a cabinet six days ago, not a single demonstration group appeared before the premier's official residence Tuesday. The gates were wide open. There were no extra police guards or American military police in the vicinity.

Allied headquarters told the Japanese yesterday that no exceptions would be made for any cabinet ministers who might fall under the purge directive barring militarists from office.

Japanese sources suggested that Yoshihiko Kawai, prospective welfare minister, might also be barred.

Sources close to MacArthur, commenting on his warning for Japanese minorities to quit use of physical violence and intimidation, said the supreme commander felt he was not taking sides in Japanese politics by issuing the order.

MacArthur was said to feel the recent election proved that the Japanese people prefer a conservative form of government. He felt his warning was "fatherly advice" against trouble-making minorities.

An allied headquarters spokesman said it was necessary for MacArthur to work through the government chosen by the people. Therefore, the spokesman said, it might appear at times as though the supreme commander was supporting certain political groups. He insisted this was untrue.

OPA OFFICIAL SAYS SUPPLY OF MEAT 'NOT BAD'

WASHINGTON, May 21—Herman Greenberg, OPA meat enforcement officer, said today that the meat supply is "not bad at all," and will improve.

Greenberg said 145 pounds of meat per person will be available for American civilians this year. This is seven pounds more than was available to each civilian during 1934-39. Demand, however, is much higher because purchasing power doubled during the war.

He gave this report to correspondents in answer to charges by the American Meat Institute that the meat black market is running wild, and that federal slaughter controls have failed.

FARM TREND IS BEST'S TOPIC AT KIWANIS CLUB

More beef and dairy cattle, fewer hogs and more soil improving crops are seen in the future of Pickaway county farming by Larry Best, county extension agent.

Mr. Best told Kiwanians at their regular Monday evening meeting in Hanley's, that per acre crop yields in Pickaway county are about the same as in 1870. Modern machinery and better farming methods are used but soil improving crops have exceeded soil improving crops with a resulting low per acre yield, Mr. Best said.

Pickaway farmers had total sales of $10,250,000 and received AAA payments totaling $348,000 in 1944, Mr. Best said. The average income per farm was $5700 gross and $35.18 per acre. The income was broken down into 40 per cent from hogs, 14 per cent from sale of wheat, 12 per cent from beef cattle, 10 per cent from poultry and 4 per cent from corn sales.

He reported corn acreage of 77,500 acres with yield of 37.1 bushels per acre; wheat acreage of 64,100 with 19.3 bushels per acre yield and hay acreage of 17,500 with a yield of 1.4 tons per acre. He said soil depleting crops totaled 144,500 and soil building crops 17,500.

Mr. Best said he believed farmers would change their programs slightly during the next 50 years as they kept Pickaway county as one of the three best farm counties in the state.

Mr. Best was introduced by Emmett Barnhart, program chairman for the evening.

render when a German in a half-track spotted him and fired at him with a pistol. He stepped behind an American vehicle, deflecting the shot, and the man went on.

He then removed all traces of his rank and joined a group of about 20 men standing in front of a farmhouse waiting to surrender. He vetoed a suggestion by Cpl. Carl R. Daub of Colebrook, Pa., that they make a break for it, since "that would give them the right to shoot us." He clasped his hands over his head, and the others followed suit.

The Americans, Lary said, were marched into a field about 100 yards from the crossroads by a group of SS men. His group was placed with about 150 other American prisoners.

As the prisoners marched into the field, he said, one of the Germans yelled "it's a long way to Tipperary, boys."

THREE CHANGE PLEAS TO GUILTY IN COURT HERE

Lewis Harrington, 40, of 209 East Mill street, was in the Pickaway county jail, Tuesday, serving a 60-day sentence imposed by Common Pleas Judge Emmitt L. Crist after Harrington had changed his plea to guilty to charges contained in two indictments. A week ago Harrington had pleaded not guilty.

Harrington was placed under three years probation in connection with the assault with intent to kill Carl Steadman, 55, of near Circleville, and he was fined $50 and costs in addition to the jail term for assault on Harry Phillips, 52, of Huston street. The indictments were an aftermath of a fight early April 14 in the Eagles' lodge.

Two other men also changed their pleas to guilty after having pleaded innocent. Fred Steinbrugge, 55, admitted having committed forgery. Imposition of sentence was withheld by Judge Crist pending the outcome of further investigation by the court. James Watkins, 50, Muhlenberg township, admitted failure to support two minor children. Judge Crist placed Watkins under four years probation.

BROMEGRASS IS GIVEN TRIALS

Perennial Grass Getting Tests On Pickaway County Farms

Brome grass, a pasture and hay crop known to few people in Pickaway county is being given trial seedings by a small number of local farmers this year, reports Soil Conservationist James A. Muster.

Brome grass is the best grass to grow with alfalfa and is recommended for trial on any Ohio soil that grows alfalfa well. It is a perennial grass that spreads by underground root stocks but it is no pest as some such grasses are.

Drought resistance is one of the qualities of Brome grass and early Spring grazing thru late Fall, is another. The grass cuts with alfalfa and the protein content is higher at corresponding stages of growth than it is in timothy, which it replaces in the seeding mixture.

Both Spring and early Fall seedings are successful, although no special care must be exercised in handling the seed through seeders because of the chafiness of the seed.

A special strain of seed, developed by the Soil Conservation Service and distributed for trial by the Pickaway Soil Conservation District was planted this Spring by Steward E. Beers in Scioto township, Wayne F. Brown, Madison township, Joe C. Peters, Walnut township and Wm. J. Barthelmas in Wayne township.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
By PAUL MALLON
WASHINGTON, May 21—The Byrnes statesmanship went to Paris asserting its patience was near exhaustion and it would make its own separate peace treaties if Russia refused again to join in.
Russia refused, as expected, but the Byrnes leadership has come out of Paris, professing to have been successful in finally arranging another meeting in a month.
Mr. Byrnes went over, with the nation behind him, Republicans, Socialists, demagogues and polliwogs. Only the Communists were then demanding his job. He has come out with his own delegation split, and the country offering advance hints of genuine doubt. Senator Vandenberg announced his patience was exhausted, if Byrnes' was not, and said he would not return to Paris in 30 days for a resumption of the impasse. The trans-Atlantic grapevine brought advance hints that the Michigan Republican planned to speak out frankly. Immediately, the administration, in fear of the consequences, began whispering it around that Vandenberg had decided to play politics for the coming election.
But is doubt about the wisdom of pursuing this foreign policy line further, merely politics? Or is it valid, genuine, inevitable? The facts to consider, include these following:
No development was announced from Paris to encourage anyone to believe that what could not be done on May 15 could be accomplished June 15. No suggestion of a chance of a change in Russian policy in 60, 90 or 1,000 days has appeared. The reason most commonly ascribed for Mr. Byrnes' sensational revival of patience (accepted by both Democratic and Republican authorities) is that he is just trying to keep the hope of a joint peace alive, without any real justification. He is covering the total impasse with promise of taking a fourth try at it (the initial peace negotiations having failed, as did the London conference, and the subsequent negotiations of the technical experts which have been continuous.)
Now not a single position Mr. Byrnes took at Paris has been criticized in this country, except the last one, for continuance. His stand on the issues met popular approval. Russia has no just right to Italian colonies upon which her soldiers never set foot, just for purposes of building up her empire. Nor has her Yugoslavia proved any right to Trieste, Russia could hardly expect the reparations demanded from Italy (and Germany) which is so weak we must feed her, but just as she got the German machinery, she got in Paris the Italian machinery as reparations—and ships. We got nothing. She won there also the acquisition of Transylvania by her Rumania, over Byrnes objection. Her Tito got Pelagos. She voted against Austrian acquisition of Bolzano province from Italy, and won that cause. She gave nothing, not the Byrnes 25 year guarantee of her own peace from Germany and Japan, not disarmament investigations of Germany which Byrnes espoused and to which she gave lip-service only, not peace for a single nation. Whatever minor steps were taken at Paris, were steps in her favor, including, I suspect, the final step of continuance of the impasse, which effectively covers and postpones any diplomatic consequences of her adamant isolationism which will give nothing.

VULNERABILITY DECIDES
Vulnerability swings the balance on many a hand, with fine bidders on the job. They hear in mind the difference in magnitude between the scores made on a game for one side as against defeating a doubled contract of the opponents, and naturally try to select the one which produces the more favorable result. Reduced to simple terms, a game for your own side should be preferred, if you are vulnerable, to a three-trick set of not-vulnerable opponents or a two-trick set of vulnerable ones. If you are not vulnerable, a three-trick set of not-vulnerable opponents or a two-trick set of vulnerable ones will outscore game for your pair.

SYNOPSIS
DON CORBETT, young AAF bombardier, just back in Miami from a stint in Europe, suffers a rude awakening as he takes a journey to his Brooklyn home on a 31-day leave.
CHAPTER FOUR
THE SAILOR'S family had chair No. 8 by the window, directly across. The man who had No. 7, on the aisle, was in his place, already seated. He got up and stood in the passage to let them get settled. The passage was crowded, but the man on the aisle and the man on the other side of the chair next to Corbett. He was stoop-shouldered, pudgy and pale, with a high forehead, a shining bald spot that was fringed by a tuft of gray hair, and he wore black sunglasses. He stayed on the arm of the chair while the sailor's wife took off her coat and the little girl's jacket, reached for the baby and sat down in the seat, squeezing her thighs together, so that the child and her doll could squat on the edge near the window. Her husband swung the bags to the rack, folded the coats, placed them on top of the valises.
"Want the suitcase down for under your feet?"
"No. It'll be in the way. Just the furlough."
"Be sure the porter puts the bottles on ice."
"Don't worry so much."
"Okay, okay." For a moment the gunner's mate stared at his wife and his kids without speaking. Then he said: "Well, I better get off."
"You better get off."
"Send me a wire when you land."
"Write soon as you can."
"I'll write. All set? Everything under control?"
The young woman's lower lip trembled. "Everything," she began, "excepting . . ."
"It's not that out! It can't be long now."
"It can't be long now," she repeated dully. She drew in her breath as if she was summoning a last ounce of courage. "Joanie, kiss daddy. Give daddy a hug."
The little girl turned reluctantly away from the window, put her doll on the floor. Her green eyes were shining with the excitement of a child going somewhere, seeing not him, but far-away, yet she dutifully flung her thin arms around his neck and squeezed hard. "Such passion!" he laughed. Then he bent over the seat and pressed his lips on his wife's upturned mouth. When he took them away, Corbett saw that the gunner's mate's eyes were as glossy and full as his wife's. He patted her cheek, pressed the baby's curls down, backed into the aisle and let the crowd push him out toward the door.
The man with the sunglasses got up from the arm of seat six and went back to his place. He glanced at the gunner's mate's wife. She was fumbling in her handbag, hunting for a handkerchief. She couldn't locate it, apparently, for after a moment she wiped her eyes with the back of her hand. The man leaned toward her, said something. She looked startled, but she managed a smile.
The smile was still on her face when the gunner's mate turned up again. "Say!" He leaned over the pudgy man. "There's another kid in this car. Nice little boy. Name's Chuckie. Comp'ny for Joanie. . . Well, so long, old girl, take good

EXECUTIVE FORESIGHT
THE coal strike, railway, strike, OPA mess and minor matters have enraged people who take their wrath out mostly in finding fault with Truman. They "wish they had a strong leader" or "if Truman had any sense he'd do this—or that" What is the matter with Truman, anyhow?
Truman is a good man—not ignorant nor unintelligent. He means well and learns from experience and is stronger than he sometimes appears. Nevertheless, the government has been falling apart. What's wrong?
What makes an executive great or small, powerful or helpless? It is a quality of reasoning imagination. It's the quality which enables the sculptor to see the angel in the block of marble; lets the architect see finished buildings in all their strong balance and fine detail before setting pencil to paper.
This quality is not mere fancy, not dream. It has an element of inspiration which may seem dreamlike to those who lack it, but it is a faculty of reason. It is the power to put two and two together, to see that in mathematics they make four, but in human relations they may make 3.78 or 4.26, or maybe—by the power of human groups to roll things up like snowballs—two and two may turn into 256 before the week is over.
This power of executive foresight, which enables a man to see danger before it comes, to have campaigns planned in several directions ready to jump, this is the power which pulls loose strings together into a rope, gives them a pull and makes things move. This power enabled a deaf Beethoven to write great symphonies. Pleasant improvisation is not enough.
MAGIC FUEL
FEW people would have thought there could ever be such a rumpus in this country about so common, cheap and familiar a thing as coal. It has been one of the most beneficent gifts of God, widely distributed, and a natural resource which the American people have almost taken for granted in most parts of our country. And when for any reason its sources are suddenly threatened, there is surprise and fear.
All the more reason, then, for us Americans to take a lively interest in atomic energy, as a convenient source of both heat and power, when man shall have brought it under dependable control.
Seems as if there are too many people, right now, trying to run this country without a license.
Kids who try to make atomic bombs are likely to get into very serious trouble.
It isn't really true that Mr. Lewis or any other civilian is entitled to run this country.

DIET AND HEALTH
Cancerous Growths Curable If Recognized Early Enough
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
THE words "too late" are never more tragic than when they refer to cancer, because here they mean all the difference between life and death. When proper treatment is begun early enough, this otherwise fatal disease can usually be cured.
Cancer of the rectum, or lower part of the bowel, for instance, kills nine thousand people in the United States every year. Many, many more than it should, according to Doctor William H. Daniel of Los Angeles, who says this death rate is entirely too high and due only to the fact that so many patients receive treatment too late.
Gradual Symptoms
Unfortunately, cancer in this part of the body, as in so many other areas, does not produce severe symptoms at the start and the victim does not realize his danger. It does, however, produce some changes. They are gradual and slight at first, but they can be recognized by those who have learned how to look for them.
In the first place, the majority of patients with this type of cancer are between 50 and 70 years of age. In only one out of five cases does it develop before 50 and in only one out of 30 does it occur between the ages of 20 and 30. Thus, people in the danger-zone of 50 to 70 should be especially alert.
As for what to watch for, the most frequent sign or symptom of cancer of the rectum is a change in the bowel action, such as diarrhea. There may be blood and mucus in the bowel movement which the patient can see by careful observation, as well as slight discomfort in the abdomen and in some instances there may be signs of blocking of the bowel such as gradually increasing constipation. Actual pain is not present at the beginning and may not occur until late in the disease.
Proper Examination
On the other hand, proper examination will reveal most cases of cancer of the rectum. This examination should include the use of an instrument known as the sigmoidoscope, a tube with a light which can be passed into the lower bowel, making it possible for the physician to examine the lining membrane directly and see the abnormal structure.
The growth at the beginning may be small or it may have the form of an ulcer or sore with firm edges. If there is any question about the diagnosis, a small bit of the tissue in which cancer is suspected to be present may be removed and examined under the microscope. X-ray examination is also helpful when it shows a defect in the lowest eight inches of the bowel, but sometimes may be misleading, since various parts of the bowel may obscure the area in which the growth is located.
Cancer in the rectum, as in cancers in other parts of the body, is treated best by early surgery. X-ray treatments, of course, are also useful. But bear in mind that it is only with early treatment that the patient's life can be saved. Persons should be on the lookout for changes in bowel action and, if they occur, should not delay in having an examination made by a physician.

Inside WASHINGTON
GOP, Democrats Battle For Enlarged Negro Vote
See No Speedy Fulfillment Of Veteran Housing Program
Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—Republican and Democratic politicians are waging a bitter tug-of-war for the Negro vote, which many think will prove decisive in middle ground territory. They are said to realize that a top-heavy majority can decide the fate of many congressional contests this fall and will play an even bigger role in 1948.
Republican National Committee Chairman Carroll Reece is directing Republican strategy to coax the Negro back into his normal party, the GOP. Coming from a district known as the "Republican island" in a Democratic state, Reece has always stood against racial discrimination at home and in the House, where he has denounced the southern poll taxers on the Democratic side.
Reece has to overcome the popularity achieved by President Roosevelt among the Negro voters. The late president won scores of thousands away from the Republican party. But Reece feels that Mr. Truman does not carry the same sympathy, despite his fight for the FEPC. Moreover, the present chief executive has been unable to handle the southern filibusters against Negro legislation.
Working against Reece and his colleagues, however, is PAC-CIO who are expected to emphasize Democratic accomplishments in the Negroes' favor where the candidate deserves it.
HOUSING EXPERTS DON'T LOOK for any speedy fulfillment of the program calling for 2,700,000 homes for veterans in the next two years, despite House restoration of the $400,000,000 subsidy provision to encourage speed.

Reason: Output of critical building materials—bricks, bathtubs, gypsum board, etc.—is far behind schedule. Almost six months have passed this year, and experts believe that it will take an undetermined time to fill the pipelines.
● BRIG. GEN. CARLOS ROMULO, Philippine resident commissioner in Washington, is rumored to be considering an offer from President-Elect Manuel Roxas to be the first Philippine ambassador to the United States.
Romulo's lectures and writings are appreciated by all parties in the Philippines because they have done much to create understanding for the islands in the United States. They were a factor in gaining independence. With independence established on next July 4, Romulo's present job, which permits him to participate in House debate and to offer bills but not to vote, will come to an end. He is popular in Washington.
● FARM LEADERS SAY PRIVATELY that the government is adopting a long range policy of stifling meat production in years to come by channeling grain into export for feeding abroad rather than into livestock feeding at home. Without criticizing the policy, they argue that more food for the starving can only add up to less meat on the market at home.
They are convinced that the government plans to force reductions in livestock numbers during the next three or four years. Some agricultural leaders think the reduction may amount to 15 or 20 per cent in beef cattle and 10 to 15 per cent for hogs.
General opinion in Washington expressed by farm officials is that the United States will be in the business of relief feeding for many months to come in order to meet its commitments abroad.
Grain, the easiest food to ship to starving countries, is the chief item of export under the relief program. They concede that the result is bound to be reflected in a reduction in meat production which may carry it down to pre-war levels. Post-war demand is expected to go well above pre-war consumption.

Horses Go On Honey Binge
MEDFORD, Ore.—Claude Hoover firmly believes a bad horse, like a bad potato in a sack of good ones, can spoil a herd.

He reported a horse he purchased from the Army taught its newly-acquired friends how to nose open a beehive and the six of them went on a honey binge, eating the contents—bees and all—of 16 hives.

Alumni Group Of Williamsport Has Annual Banquet

Williamsport Alumni banquet was held at the Sulphur Springs pavilion, Saturday evening. This was one of the largest and most successful banquets the group has held in many years.

The room was effectively decorated with a false ceiling made of blue and gold crepe paper in keeping with the school colors. Tables were set to form a W for Williamsport and a V on each end. They were centered with tall yellow tapers and bouquets of blue and gold flowers on either end. Large bouquets of iris and peonies were placed on the stage. Favors which marked each place were nut cups covered with blue and gold paper and made in the shape of a water lily.

Dinner was served to the group by the Williamsport Women's Society of Christian Service. Following the banquet C. F. Puffinberger opened the program by giving the invocation. Group singing followed and Marvane Ruhl introduced William D. Radcliff who served as toastmaster for the evening.

Presentation of classes '43, '44, and '45 were made by Ida Ware, Judson Lanman, superintendent of the school, presented the class of '46. Russell McDill offered the welcome to the classes and Don Henson made the response.

A marimbo solo was given by Rose Evelyn Wardell. Lella McAbee offered a toast "To the Service Boys and Girls". Other toasts were given by Harmon Carter, O. C. Manley, and Rose Evelyn Wardell. Ruth France played a piano solo and Miss Wardell offered another musical selection.

After the program the remainder of the evening was spent in social dancing.

The retiring officers of the organization who were in charge of the preparations for the banquet were Mrs. Gordon Ruhl, Mary Alice Luelien, Tommy Tipton, Bessie Schleich, and Merrill Carmean.

The new officers include Harmon Carter, president; Galen Carter, 1st vice president; Helen Wright, 2nd vice president; Grace Hissey, secretary; and Paul Schein, treasurer.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

Russia has fired twice at our military planes, once in Asia, once in Europe. Authorities here do not believe these incidents were of the familiar Hitler character, and designed for diplomatic pressure upon the Paris meet, but were human mistakes of trigger-happy Russian soldiers, who frequently get that way. Quiet apologies have been made to our military, but not published. She has succeeded in getting Iceland to deny us north Atlantic bases, which are an important facility of our occupation abroad, and of safety for commercial aviation. She has chosen to make a diplomatic incident out of what she calls "the hooligans" of a minor American embassy employee with an actress ("hooligans" meaning the gentleman struck, or made as if to, the lady).

These affairs come currently upon a year of effort toward peace, studded with similar events, such as refusal of Russia to enter the world monetary arrangement, the world rail agreements, the world press relations the atom bomb spying in Canada and leaving vacant the Russian seat in UN.

Far beyond politics, a question is thus inevitably thrust forward by events: Are we getting along well on the foreign policy we have been pursuing, or would we have a better chance by dropping pretense and recognizing the facts, and affixing our foreign policy to these facts? Is it better to keep an impassive aloof, by pretending it does not exist, or to accept it for what it is, and go to work and make our own way in the world, as we are required to do anyway?

Have not our official hopes for the peace been broken on the rock of Russian isolationism? Should we pursue that lost line further? Or was Mr. Byrnes right in the first place, when he went to Paris? I am not answering this question. I am saying events ask it.

Opinions expressed by the writer in this column are the views of the author and not necessarily those of the Cincinnati Herald.

DEACON WANTS GOOD WEATHER

Reds' Boss Also Desires Southpaw Fielder to 'Have Some Fun'

BY OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 21—Manager Bill McKeechie, whose Cincinnati Reds have been the surprise team of the National League this Spring, was a'cursin' and a'prayin' today.

The thin, spare man who is known along the baseball trail as the Deacon because he was a fine baritone in the Wilkinsburg, Pa. Methodist choir for so many years, was angry with the weather which has been keeping his Reds from contributing more form ups.

And the canny Scot, who once again is proving he can do more with less than any man in the game, was hopeful that the player limit deadline next month would allow him to pick up one good, left-handed hitting outfielder. "Good weather and one good outfielder, that's what I'd like to have," the Deacon complained. "Then maybe we could have some fun."

McKeechie's idea of fun is to win ball games. And he has an idea that if the favored National League teams can belt each other around enough they all might get the jitters—"and then you can't tell what's liable to happen."

But with the season just a bit more than a month gone, Bill's club undoubtedly is the major surprise of the year. During Spring training the experts were predicting that the men of McKeechie would be lucky to finish seventh in the Epworth League. Why, they said, they might even be as bad as the Phillies.

The Reds looked it, too, as the season opened. They dropped seven of their first 10 games—but since have hit a dazzling .714 clip by winning 10 out of 14. Still Bill complains about the weather.

"Our pitching is okay but how can you expect them to hold their edge when they don't get a chance to work," he explained. "We have run into so much rain and bad weather that playing in bad places—St. Louis, Philadelphia, New York and Brooklyn—we only got in five games in nine days."

Bill, the only manager to win pennants in three places, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Cincinnati, doesn't have the "old man's home" of last season when he operated with such fingers as 40-year-old Guy Bush and 42-year-old Hod Lisenbee. So he may be moving into position for a repeat of his first days at Cincinnati.

That was in 1938, and he took a last place ball club and made it of a contender which finished fourth. The next two years he won the National League flag.

BRITISH PUSH WORK ON ATOMIC POWER PROGRAM

DIDCOT, England, May 21—Behind barbed wire barricades in a camouflaged hut that once housed glider pilots who landed in Normandy on D-Day a group of British scientists are performing the first experiments in a vast program to bring the empire abreast of the United States in atom power.

A few hundred yards away from the sprawling Harwell airport candidates for the British derby cantered across the Berkshire downs today. Security guards loomed before the big iron gates which eventually will mark the entrance to the $200,000,000 atom research project.

Inside the barbed wire, a remnant of the war, a few children played with makeshift swings while their parents watched them from converted RAF barracks.

There was about the entire scene the pleasant lethargy of British Spring which led one of empires leading scientists, M. L. Oliphant, to protest what he called a "complete lack of any sense of urgency."

FINCASTLE BOY HAS HIGHEST, LOWEST GRADES

FINCASTLE, O., May 21—Valedictorian, honor student, class president, and boy most likely to succeed—that is the unchallenged record of John William Martin, who tonight will be graduated as the only member of the class of 1946 at Fincastle Eagle High School.

John once was one of 10 members of the class of '46, but the war and attraction of war industries in nearby cities left him without a classmate at the beginning of his senior year.

Young Martin will receive a college scholarship as the outstanding member of the class, an annual award at Fincastle. His class work actually compares very well with that of seniors elsewhere in the same county.

His commencement invitations have been printed in maroon and gold, the school colors. His class motto, chosen by himself, is "Ambition Has No Rest."

TWO MORE GAMES IN NIGHT LOOP ARE WASHED OUT

Night Softball league schedule has received two more jolts Tuesday. Monday afternoon's rain washed out the contest scheduled in the evening and left the field so wet that Tuesday's game has been postponed.

The Blue-Ribbon-American Legion game, scheduled Monday, and the Richards-Williamsport contest, set for Tuesday, will be played at a later date, when and if the rain stops.

Efforts will be made to get the league going again Wednesday night with Emeralds and Isals playing—if the weather permits.

SEVEN DRIVERS READY FOR RACE

Speeds Of More Than 120 Miles Per Hour Made In Qualifying Runs

INDIANAPOLIS, May 21—Seven drivers had qualified today for the 1946 Indianapolis motor speedway Memorial Day classic.

Ted Horn driving the same eight-cylinder Maserati that Wilbur Shaw twice piloted to victory in the 500-mile race, turned in the fastest time in yesterday's qualifying run. Horn averaged 123.980 miles an hour for the required 10 miles.

Horn, a consistently high finisher in previous Speedway races, covered the first and third laps in an average speed of 124.206. His slowest time was 123.745.

Horn will have inside position on the third row Memorial Day. His eight-cylinder supercharged rear-drive special is owned by Mike Boyle of Chicago.

Duke Dinsmore, Dayton, O., the day's second qualified, traveled the four laps at an average speed of 123.279. His best lap was his third, covered at 123.474 an hour. He drove a Johnston special, four-cylinder, rear-drive model.

Tony Bettenhausen, in an eight-cylinder, supercharged Marchese special, turned in an average speed of 121.860 to qualify. Bettenhausen's fastest lap was his third—122.117 miles an hour.

Cliff Bergere, Hollywood, Cal., will race in the pole position. He won the spot with an average qualifying speed of 126.471 miles per hour.

MEXICO CITY, May 21—Home run Babe Ruth doubted today whether he would receive an offer to become the Happy Chandler of the Mexican league and emphasized that he didn't think he would accept a position as its baseball commissioner if he did get a bid. "I'm having a good time, but I haven't even talked baseball with Jorge Pasquel, the Mexican league president," he said.

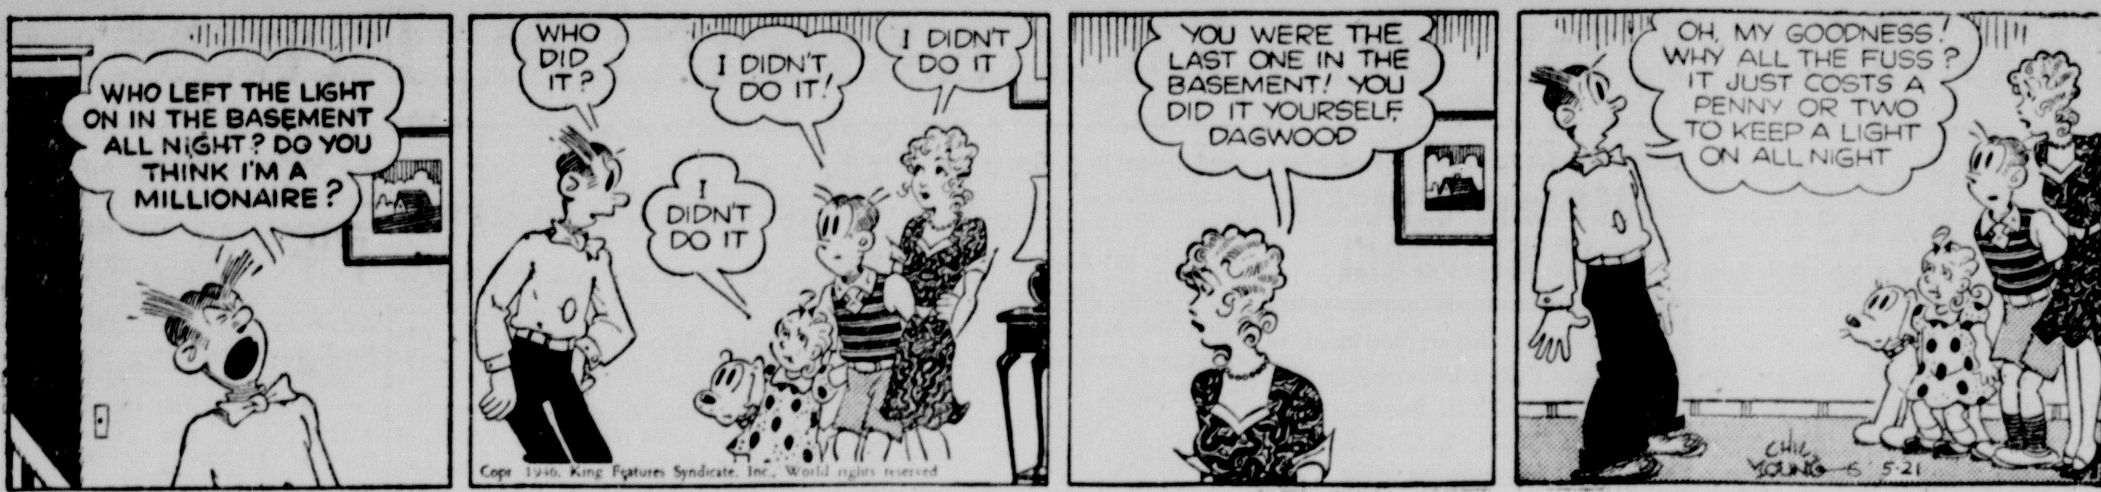

"It is nice to be his guest, but I haven't received an offer from him, and I don't believe I would be signing one if I got it. I like Mexico, and I can see it growing in everything, its sports enterprises, its buildings—as I said everything."

Pickaway Schools Urged To Help In Food Conservation Program

PUPILS ASKED TO TAKE HOME FAMINE NEWS

Famine Emergency Group Enlists Aid Of All To Help War Victims

An appeal for the assistance of school children and school officials in carrying into Circleville and Pickaway county homes the famine message of starving Europe and the necessity for conserving food was received Tuesday by County Superintendent George D. McDowell from the Famine Emergency Committee, Washington, of which Chester C. Davis is chairman and Herbert Hoover is honorary chairman.

"Through the school distribution of Red Cross check sheets," the communication signed by Chairman Davis said, "the famine message has been carried into 22 million American homes. I cannot begin to tell you how valuable this cooperation has been to the overall conduct of the campaign against starvation. On behalf of the Famine Emergency Committee, I wish to express my deep appreciation of your personal efforts in making this distribution a success."

"Before too many days have passed students will have started on Summer vacation. Because the time is very short and the need very great, could I ask you to bring one more important message to the attention of the students in the schools under your jurisdiction? Could you arrange to have the following letter read in each of your class rooms?"

The message follows:

"In Europe and Asia today, millions of children are undernourished and seriously weakened by hunger. To us—the best fed people on earth—that word 'hunger' doesn't mean much. We know that our hunger will be satisfied at the next meal. But hunger in many parts of the world today is something that cannot be satisfied at the next meal. There is no next meal. So hunger goes on and on and on until hope, and health, and finally life itself, are gone."

"What can you do about it? Here's what you can do."

"1—Eat only one slice of bread per meal.

"2—Cut down on pastries, such as pies, cakes, and doughnuts; these use up wheat flour as well as badly needed fats and oils.

"3—Eat more potatoes, oatmeal, and fresh vegetables.

"4—Clean up your plate at each meal. That way you can do without those in-between snacks of rich food.

"5—Help save used fats at home and see that they are turned in.

"6—Keep your Victory Garden producing."

"If each of us reduces his consumption of food, supplies will back up in marketing channels and will be available to the government for purchase and shipment to the famine areas. The world is depending upon democracy to show its strength in peace just as it did in war. Democracy is strong only to the extent that each of us does his part. Will you do yours?"

5,782 TRAVELED BY AIR IN '26

400 Airports, 'Reliable Despite Rotation Of Crops', Used

WASHINGTON, May 21—Some 5,782 of our older citizens made airline trips in 1926. To handle this traffic there were 400 airfields, listed as "reliable despite rotation of crops."

Old hands around the civil aeronautics administration were recalling these and other facts as civil aviation celebrated its 20th anniversary under federal regulation and promotion.

On May 20, 1926, President Calvin Coolidge signed the air commerce act establishing government supervision of the promising new industry.

This year, CAA estimated, 10,500,000 customers will travel on the airlines—with none of the trepidation that beset their 1926 fore-runners.

There are other statistics which show how U. S. aviation, trailing that of all other major countries in 1926, came into its own once federal support was won.

Twenty years ago we turned out 658 civil aircraft. CAA says we will produce 50 times that number—32,900—this year. In 1927, we had 1,572 certificated pilots. This year their rolls should reach 345,000.

In 1944, there was only one passenger death for each 47,172,551 miles of flying on scheduled airlines. In 1926 the figure was one death in 5,357,143 miles.

But if the advances of the past 20 years seem spectacular, air enthusiasts say, just watch the next 20. U. S. airlines soon will transport passengers to nearly any spot

LIFE IN ALASKA IS EXPENSIVE, LOCAL MAN SAYS

Life in Alaska embraces many conditions in sharp contrast to those in Pickaway county. This was disclosed Tuesday by a letter from Bob Puffinbarger, Williamsport, who is serving in the Army at Johnson River, Alaska. The communication was received by Budd Harden of the Harden and Stevenson Garage, East Franklin street.

Puffinbarger said that at 11:30 p. m. the sun shines brightly in Alaska, that room and board costs $225 a month, and food alone costs $160 a month.

He wants a nice, new, shiny 1946 Chevrolet, Puffinbarger informed Harden, and he added that it must be a five-passenger black coupe, with red wheels, and all the extra trimmings — except a muffler which he wants omitted.

Puffinbarger's military mailing address is APO 731, T Unit 2, c/o Postmaster, Seattle, Wash.

on the globe between two sunsets. Inter-community air services will become commonplace. Family-type planes will be about as unusual as automobiles.

The United States will meet the challenge of new propulsive devices, speeds greater than that of sound, helicopters, flying wings and, some day, space ships.

BREAD BREAD BREAD

An Appeal to the Housewives

If housewives are to have any bread on your tables you must cooperate with the bakers immediately, and write to your CONGRESSMAN WALTER E. BREHM, AND SENATORS ROBERT TAFT AND JAMES W. HUFFMAN, and make your desires sufficiently plain to the Government. If we don't it appears that most bakeries will close, and flour will also disappear from the shelves of most retail food stores.

Representatives of the flour milling industry and the baking industry stated Friday at a conference called by Senators from the principal wheat-producing states, "that not more than two-thirds, and more likely one-half, of the normal amount of flour would be produced this month for use in this country," and that "none at all would be produced next month." Millers are unable to buy any wheat because the Government is paying 30c per bushel more than millers are allowed to pay and is shipping all that it buys to other countries under the famine relief program. In addition millers were ordered to sell to the Government all wheat they had on hand on May 1 over and above a 21-day supply, because of which 85% of all flour mills are now closed. Representatives of the Department of Agriculture at the conference Friday said that "none of the wheat they are buying will be released to millers to produce flour for use in this country. Unless the American people desire otherwise."

This is just a sample of what is ahead of us, if we don't cooperate and do what we can to overcome this crisis. We are compelled to ration bread now, one loaf to each customer, and we all know that later on it will be impossible to bake any at all because of "NO FLOUR."
